Dooding	This week in Reading you will read about a boy that has a HORRIBLE day. Please click the link below to hear the story. After the story go into Seesaw for your Monday (4/6) activity. You will write who the main character or characters are, what the setting of the story is, and THREE events that made Alexander's day so bad. If you print out the sheet you then can take a picture of your paper and upload it to Seesaw to show your teacher your work. Alexander and the Terrible, Horrible, No Good, Very Bad Day Seesaw Today in writing we will be reviewing what an action Verb is. An action verb is a word that shows action.	Math	Today in math, we will begin to look at Two Demensional Shapes. You will log on to Seesaw to complete today's activities. The first activity for you to complete is called "2D Shapes". You will need to write the name of each shape next to the correct shape. You will also write down how many vertices (corners) and sides (edges) each shape has. The second activity for today is called "Let's Count". You will need to look at each shape and write down how many vertices (corners) and sides (edges) each shape has. For an extra practice, you may do the Geoboard activity to practice building your own 2D shapes and practice their names along with how many vertices (corners) and sides (edges) they have. There will also be an "Anchor Chart" avaliable for everyone to practice the shapes as well.	at log so will be be so	Today in Reading you can listen to the story about Alexander again. Please go into Seesaw for your Wednesday (4/8) activity. If you would like to listen to the story again click the link below.
